

Merritt Island Update

As work continues on the future Merritt Island Community Facility in Welland, the Merritt Island trail is affected. While it is still possible to access the trail, it requires navigating a large loose gravel pathway that connects with a crushed gravel lower pathway that follows the water on the right side. You can eventually get back up to the paved trail to continue on to the tracks. It is possible to get through, but it is not recommended for Freewheeler groups. Individuals may negotiate the work area. Be aware that the trail may be temporarily closed on certain days to support construction activities and help keep everyone safe while work is taking place.

Learn more about the project and follow its progress on Engage Welland:

<https://engagewelland.ca/merritt-island-community-facility>

